COMMUNICATION

July 30, 1957

The Editor of the Times-Virginian
Dear Sir:

Please allow me space for a brief note of thanks to all of those who responded to the distress call from Camp Winonah on July 23rd, 1957 when one of the community children, David Preston Jr., drowned while swimming in the lake.

In times like these, where there is, seemingly, so much distress and weariness in the world, it is most gratifying to know that, regardless of all else, there still remains an element of human kindness in the hearts of the people in Appomattox. Thank you.

Mozella J. Price.

Successful firing of a Genie, an air-to-air rocket with a nuclear war head, was reported by the Air Defense Command. The device was fired from a jet plane over Nevado.

FLIGHT-TRAINING PROGRAM

A new flight-training program for qualified high school graduates has been announced by the Department of the Navy, according to Chief J. D. Honeycutt, head of Lynchburg's Navy Recruiting Station.

"Known as the NavCad Program, a part of the Navy's high school graduate training program, it offers young men who yearn to be Naval aviators a tremendous opportunity to fly the modern, high performance aircraft of the Navy," Honeycutt said.

"Because of the large expense, (approximately $100,000) involved in training an individual to become a Naval aviator, only top quality, highly motivated men will be accepted for this program," he added.

To qualify the applicant must be over 18 years of age, unmarried, and agree to remain unmarried until commissioned, and meet the physical standards for flight training.

He must be a graduate of four-year high school curriculum and must be serving in a four or six year enlistment in the regular Navy.

NavCads receive specialized training in one of several various types of aircraft: jet fighter or attack aircraft, propeller driven attack aircraft, carrier based ASW aircraft, patrol aircraft, (landplanes or seaplanes), or helicopters. They also receive training in general Navy subjects and aviation ground and flight training.

Currently, NavCads are commissioned ensigns, USNR, and designated Naval aviators in about the 14th month after commencement of flight training. The remaining period of about four months flight training is in officer status for a total of about 18 months flight training.

NavCads receive pay of $111.15 per month. While in flying status an additional $50 per month flight pay is provided. After commissioning, they are paid the pay and allowances of their grade and length of service, including aviation pay.

Interested persons may receive further information by visiting the local Navy Recruiting Station, Post Office Building, Lynchburg, or call Lynchburg 3-1521.
